China

1,000 AD – Most economically developed area in the world.

By 1,500 - Europe surpassed China as China went into isolation, occupation, and humiliation

For the first time in China's history, emperors actually encouraged foreign trade (previously, they had tried to avoid trading with foreigners)

400-1500

— Silk Road — Other trade route

Sources of Trade and Cultural Exchange

Ideas, goods, and even disease were carried along the trade routes of Asia. Many empires and kingdoms competed for control of the main route, called the Silk Road.

The global economy will accelerate in 2015, with more than half of global growth coming from the US and China
